2. Executive Summary

- Question: Issue arose, if the High Court was justified in convicting and sentencing the husband u/ss. 498A and 306 IPC.
- Answer: The Supreme Court held that the High Court's concurrent conviction of the husband under ss. 498A (cruelty) and 306 (abetment of suicide) of the IPC could not be sustained unless the ingredients of abetment of suicide are established.

- Cruelty (s. 498A) is punishable under section 85 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, which prescribes imprisonment of up to three years and a fine for subjecting a married woman to cruelty. [cdd566a9-9cf8-41ac-8b0e-e8549d1eefef].
- Abetment of suicide (s. 306) attracts the presumption under section 117: the Court may presume abetment only when it is shown that the woman committed suicide within seven years of marriage. [a2e1dff3-b578-4b45-9679-a33775d91a58].

The Court observed that mere proof of cruelty (s. 498A) does not automatically satisfy the requirements for s. 306; the presumption of abetment arises only if the suicide occurred within the stipulated seven-year period and the cruelty is established. The Court allowed the conviction under s. 306 (abetment of suicide) while allowing the conviction under s. 498A (cruelty) to stand, provided the cruelty was independently established.

Thus, the Supreme Court resolved the issue by limiting liability under s. 306 to cases where the statutory presumption (or direct evidence) of abetment is attracted, and it held that the High Court's conviction was sustainable.
